

Contributors

Editor Hussein Solomon

Professor Hussein Solomon lectures in the Department of Political Sciences at the University of the Free State. He is currently a visiting Professor at the Global Collaboration Centre at Osaka University, Japan and a visiting Fellow at the Mackinder Programme for the Study of Long-Wave Events at the London School of Economics and Political Science.

Botswana Chapter:

Balefi Tsie is Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Botswana (UB). He served as Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences at UB from 2003 to 2009. He was Head of the Department of Political and Administrative Studies from 1993 to 1998. Prof. Tsie has a Ph.D. from the University of Leeds in England. His research interests are: Globalization and Regional Integration in Southern Africa; The State and Development in SADC; Civil Society and Developmental Democracy in Southern Africa; International Political Economy and Democratic Governance in Southern Africa.

Lesotho Chapter:

Professor Francis Mako, former Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences of the National University of Lesotho, served in the Department of Political and Administrative Studies of this university up to 2010. He has published extensively in wide-ranging topics such as Democracy and Governance, Elections, Political Development, Political Parties, Public policy, conflict resolution, national security, labor relations, regional integration, gender Politics. He is a member of the Association for African Public Administration and Management (AAPAM), South African Association for Public Administration and Management (SAAPAM), the Organization for Social Science Research in Eastern and Southern Africa (OSSREA) and South Africa Institute of Africa (SAIA).

Mauritius Chapter:

Sheila Bunwaree is Professor of Gender and Development Studies at the University of Mauritius. She has also served as the Director of the Research Department at the Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA), based in Dakar, (Senegal). More recently she was senior researcher at the Centre for Conflict Resolution, in Cape Town. Her research interests include governance, gender and globalisation. Sheila Bunwaree has numerous publications to her record.

Mozambique Chapter:

João C. G. Pereira is Auxiliary Professor at the Faculty of Social Science Department of Political and Public Administration (Eduardo Mondlane University, Mozambique) and Director of Civil Society Support Mechanism (CSSM). He is also associated with the Institute for Economic and Social Studies (IESE), Afrobarometer, and Comparative National Electoral Project in Mozambique. His research interests include: Voting behavior; Public opinion, Party Politics, Urban Politics, Political representations, Political Communication, Civil Society, Government Accountability and Responsiveness.

Sandra Manuel is a PhD Candidate in Anthropology and Sociology, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, and Lecturer at the Department of Archeology and Anthropology, Eduardo Mondlane University in Mozambique. Her area of interest includes Gender and Politics Studies, Sexual Behaviour, Lesbian & Gay studies, AIDS & HIV, Medical Anthropology, Youth Behaviour, and Medical Sociology.

Carlos Shenga PhD Candidate in Political Science, Research Assistant in Democracy in Africa Research Unit of the Centre for Social Science Research, both at the University of Cape Town, and Principal Investigator of the Afrobarometer Network in Mozambique. He has been involved in CNEP (Comparative National Election Project) and CSES (Comparative Studies of Electoral Systems) networks. His area of interest includes Comparative Politics, Democracy, Elections and Parliament.

Namibia Chapter:

André du Pisani is Professor of Political Studies and former Dean of Faculty at the University of Namibia (UNAM) and former Director in Namibia of the Southern African Defence and Security Management Network (SADEM). He serves as National Coordinator for the Volkswagen Foundation funded Angola-Namibia Project of the Arnold Bergstraesser Institut. He is the author, editor or co-editor of several books and numerous articles on Namibian politics and security issues in the SADC region.

William A. Lindeke now serves as the Senior Research Associate for Democracy and Governance at the Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR) in Windhoek, Namibia. He was Professor of Political Studies at the University of Massachusetts Lowell (retired). He has authored or co-authored several book chapters and articles on Namibian politics and on SADC issues. He is Co-national Investigator for Round Four of the Afrobarometer in Namibia and a Senior Researcher on the Angola-Namibia Project.

South Africa Chapter:

Professor Dirk Kotzé is the Head of the Department in the Political Sciences at the University of South Africa (UNISA). He is a member of the International Political Science Association and as National Secretary/treasurer of the South African Association of Political Studies. Moreover, he is also involved in the official training programme in South Africa for the Government of Southern Sudan. He was a member of the ministerial panel on ownership of land by foreigners in South Africa. Academic publications and media contributions include topics like the Negotiation Process in South Africa and The Transition, Political Cartoons, Elections, Democratic Consolidation,

The ANC and SACP, The quality of democracy, and conflict resolution.

Swaziland Chapter:

Petros Magagula is Political Science Senior Lecturer with the Department of Political and Administrative Studies (PAS) in the Faculty of Social Science at the University of Swaziland. He has also served as a member of the Governing Body for the Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration Commission (CMAC) of Swaziland, served as the Chairperson of the Social Science Sub- Committee of the National Research Council, based in Swaziland. His research interests include Foreign Investments in Swaziland and its Politico-Socio-Economic effects, Post- independence Political Development in Swaziland.

Zwelibanzi Masilela is a former Political Science Lecturer with the Department of Political and Administrative Studies, Faculty of Social Science in the University of Swaziland. He is currently working at the Department of Trade and Industry in the International Trade and Economic Development (ITED) under the Southern African Customs Union (SACU) Directorate. He has published for various institutions including the Electoral Institute for Southern Africa – EISA (2008), Transparency International - TI Zimbabwe (2007), Open Society for Southern Africa – OSISA (2006), and worked for the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs (NDI) and the Council of Swaziland Churches.

Zambia Chapter:

Jotham Momba is an Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Zambia. He has written a number of articles on issues of governance and liberal democracy in Zambia. He is former head of the Department of Political and Administrative Studies. He also taught at the Drew University in the USA as a Fulbright Fellow and at the University of Swaziland. He was president of the Organisation for Social Science and Research in Eastern and Southern Africa (OSSREA) from 2007 to 2011. He obtained his BA from the University of Zambia and his MA and PhD from the University of Toronto, Canada.

Zimbabwe Chapter:

John Makumba is an Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Zimbabwe. Author of Behind the Smokescreen: The Politics of Zimbabwe's 1995 General Elections, (with Daniel Compagnon), and several other books. Actively involved in civic action and, until recently, founder Chairman of the Zimbabwe Chapter of Transparency International (TI). He also sat on the international Board of Directors of TI. He is the founder Chairman of the Zimbabwe Albino Association (ZIMAS), and sits on the Board of the African Development Educators' Network (ADEN). He is also a board member of the Mass Public Opinion Institute (MPOI).