- Have been the primary drivers of economic integration.
- Some instrumental in implementing the Abuja treaty, especially in terms of promoting free movement of people and capital.
- Eight RECs recognised by the AU.
- ECOWAS and EAC have free movement

FORCED RETURNS

- Common African Position
- 'Quietly' adopted at Jan 2018 AU summit
 - Unclear which countries, if any object/agree with whole document or with parts
- Serves as a guiding document for AU states involved in GCM negotiations
- Ensure common voice and concerns and expectations
- Not directly comparable as AU is collective and not involved in GCM negotiations

SIMILARITIES

- Both recognise migration is poorly managed
- Call for comprehensive efforts to improve management to maximise benefits
- Non-binding

CRTIQUES

- Vague non-enforceable language
- Do not include actual migrant perspectives
- Over-emphasizes 'supply' issues and not enough attention to 'demand' issues
- 'Grey' space between migrant and refugee, including climate-related issues or other 'forced' movement.

THEMATIC DIFFERENCES

1. Migration Drivers

- GCM speaks to broad 'root causes' including political, economic, social and environmental conditions
- CAP identifies foreign intervention as a key cause of instability and irregular migration
- Terrorism
- Calls "directly on the need to stop all political interference and Military engagements and interventions in Africa by outside forces that have resulted into a protracted conflict situation thereby triggering migration crisis in the continent "

2. Brain Drain

- GCM commits to providing pathways for regular migration that 'reflect labour market realities'
- CAP calls to end selective recruitment targeting African talent that threatens development and prohibits achieving SGDs
- CAP labels 'brain drain' as a threat to Africa and African development

3. Sovereignty of nations/Border Management

- Border Management and national sovereignty heavily emphasized in GCM
- Guiding principle
- Emerged as key theme in negotiations
- CAP positions that TOO much emphasis on security and border management creates irregular migration
- Adds that intergovernmental and regional organisations play and overlooked role in migration management.

4. Media

- CAP identifies and criticizes media for their role in fostering anti-migrant sentiment.
- Calls for establishment of a mechanism to address negative media narratives that are biased against migrants
- GCM more general
- Calls on eliminating discrimination and promoting fact-based public discourse

5. Role of Development

- CAP calls for investment into “pro poor” economic growth through industrialisation, economic diversification, improved trade policies and employment.
- GCM speaks to ‘reaching those who are furthest behind’

6. Detention

- GCM discourages detention and seeks to 'use migration detention only as a last resort and work towards alternatives'
- CAP lambasts "the practice of re-labelling detention centres as 'holding camps or processing centres or whatever names they are called'" and calls expressly for their abolishment as a serious violation of human rights

7. Criminal

- GCM much more deliberate about issues of smuggling and trafficking and calls specifically for the disambiguation of the two different phenomena.
- CAP makes only passive reference to smuggling and trafficking and applies them without distinction
